

Birketts LLP are 'Backing Young Suffolk'

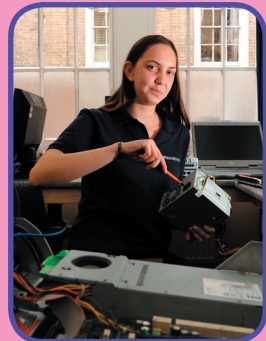

We have benefited from having an enthusiastic worker which has in turn enabled us to move on projects at a faster pace. Renee's primary role is "user support", which requires tact and diplomacy as well as technical skill; the secondary roles include rebuilding PCs, printers and other associated hardware. Renee has slotted into the team with ease and has quickly become a very valuable member of staff, and has shown herself to be very capable and a credit to IDEA.

Chris Simmons, Birketts LLP

Apprenticeships give individuals the opportunity to complete on the job training enabling them to gain skills and qualifications while being employed. Apprenticeships give employers the chance to train and develop staff that meet the needs of their business while individuals the opportunity to gain the experience necessary for career progression. IDEA is looking for organisations like Birketts that have a strong use of IT, not just those who provide IT support to support apprentices within their organisations.

It is so hard to choose a 'best' moment of the apprenticeship as there have been so many to count. I would have to say that some of the best moments were getting the phone call to say I had the placement, the second week of the placement where I had had the time to settle in and got to know my colleagues, and the feeling of success when I manage to complete a job correctly for the first time without help? This apprenticeship has been a bridge between college and work experience. It is a great opportunity to work in the IT sector and earn money as well as learning and working toward a qualification that can be put on your CV.
